The Transport Equipment Works No. 2 (Zaklady Sprzetu Transportowego) is located at 25 Minska Street, in the Praga suburb of Warsaw. It has 2700 employees working in three shifts, reconditioning foreign make cars such as the Citroen, Skoda, Fiat, Willis, Chevrolet, and Pobieda. An acute shortage of spare parts results in the inability of the workshops to carry out repairs on schedule. In May 1951 this difficulty led to a decrease in the workers' premium from 85% of a day's pay to only 32%, causing considerable discontent among the workers.
